GETTYSBURG MAN HEADS LUTHERANS

Dr. Singmaster Elected President of the General Synod, now in Session. Will be Help toward Getting Meeting here.

On the first ballot taken at the opening session of the Lutheran General Synod at Akron, Ohio, on Wednesday, Dr. J. A. Singmaster, of Gettysburg, was elected president. The delegates number about 300 and represent twenty four district synods with a membership of 350,000 people.

Dr. Singmaster was mentioned as a prominent possibility for the office of president before the opening of Synod, but a number of other well known Lutherans were also expected to poll large votes and the election on the first ballot is a matter for special congratulation. Immediately after his election Dr. Singmaster took the chair, succeeding Dr. H. L. Yarger, of Atchison, Kansas, who was elected in 1913, when the Synod met in that town.

In addition to the pleasure which Dr. Singmaster's election will afford his many friends here, the news is also welcome for the reason that it will likely help to no small extent the effort to secure for Gettysburg the 1917 convention which will be held in connection with the 40th anniversary of the Reformation. This year's meeting is in the new Holy Trinity Lutheran church, recently erected at a cost of $225,000.

Other Gettysburg men who in years past held the highest office in the General Synod were Dr. C. P. Krauth, Dr. S. S. Schmucker, Dr. J. A. Brown, Dr. C. A. Hay, Dr. H. W. McKnight, Dr. J. A. Clutz, Dr. H. L. Baugher, and Dr. E. J. Wolf.

Of the delegates at this year's meeting between sixty and seventy are graduates of the institutions at Gettysburg.

ON BIG FEATURE

Battlefield and Town Both Taken by Highway Squad.

Gettysburg is on the Lincoln Highway film. The squad of men from headquarters, headed by H. C. Ostermann, arrived in town Wednesday night in four large cars at ten o'clock. This morning pictures were taken on East Cemetery Hill, from the tower on Hancock avenue, Little Round Top, the Pennsylvania monument, and Devil's Den. This afternoon the National Cemetery was filmed. In each instance the moving picture camera was stationary, no attempt being made to take the pictures from the moving automobile.

At one o'clock this afternoon several hundred persons and a large number of automobiles were gathered in Center Square for the pictures and after filming this sight, the various streets and places of interest were taken. More decorations appeared during the morning and Gettysburg should put up a fine appearance on its share of the ten reels.

The party left this afternoon for Chambersburg where they are due to operate to-morrow.

SNYDER-COLLINS

Snyder, also of Cumberland township, were married at the home of the bride on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock by Rev. D. W. Woods. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. Luncheon was served afterward. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder will reside with the bride's parents.

PAINFUL INJURY

Abscess Forms on Broken Arm. Hurt at Wash Tub.

Mrs. Pius Smith, of New Oxford, met with an accident that has caused her to suffer much pain. Mrs. Smith was closing a washing machine, when the lid fell, catching her right arm between the lid and tub and splintering a bone near the elbow. The injury also caused a large abscess to form on the arm, which has caused her much pain. She is improving under the care of a physician.

COAL CONTRACT FINALLY AWARDED

After Two Efforts to Get Satisfactory Bids, Board of Poor Directors Place Contract for Winter's Coal Supply.

The contract for furnishing the coal for the County Home has been awarded for the year to Scott Brothers, of Gettysburg, the lowest bidders. They will furnish 60 tons of bituminous, (4 inch screen, Finley egg), at $3.20 per gross ton; 90 tons of hard anthracite egg at $5.40 per gross ton; and 50 tons of anthracite nut at $5.80 per gross ton.

This year the directors were compelled to advertise twice for bids for furnishing coal. The first time bids were asked for delivery "on trestle". Some of the local dealers do not have trestles and the bids were made in such a variety of ways that, in order to be fair to all, re-advertisement was made, this time for delivery "on track."

Again some of the bids were made in different manner from that desired and the directors had some difficulty to ascertain just what figure the dealers were quoting, but out of the entire number, the figures furnished by Scott Brothers were the lowest and the contract was accordingly given to that firm.

The directors have lately been making their semi-annual round of visits to the children placed by them in various homes throughout the county. They have completed the investigation and report things satisfactory.

RECEPTION FOR SPECIAL GUESTS

Knights of Columbus from Philadelphia will also Attend Mass in Catholic Church. Coming by Special Train for Two Days.

With a reception given them by the Gettysburg Knights of Columbus and a special mass in St. Francis Xavier church, the visit of Archbishop Ryan Council, of Philadelphia, to Gettysburg on June 12 and 13 promises to be of unusual interest. The party will be composed of 250 knights and ladies and they are due to arrive here by special train at 12:35 p. m. on Saturday, the twelfth.

Reservations for the entire party have been made at the Eagle Hotel and, after dinner there, the trip over this spring just three weeks apart in Washington. Mr. Jacobs who was 42 years of age, was afflicted with tuberculosis and was taken to the Providence Hospital, at Washington, for treatment. Mrs. Jacobs, who was subject to heart failure, called at the hospital to see her husband and was so affected by his pitiable condition that when she returned home she became seriously ill. After a time she was removed to the Garfield Hospital to undergo treatment, where she died on March 11, 1915. A daughter by her first marriage, who lived in Washington, had the remains sent to Virginia for burial.

The children had in the meantime been sent to the Children's Home, in Washington, D. C. Three weeks from March 11, Mr. Jacobs, the father died, leaving the children homeless. The oldest of the children, who is aged 12, had slight recollections of her step-sister, but did not know where she was located. The trustees of the home in an effort to get into communication with Miss Jacobs, advertised the circumstances in the city papers. Mrs. Charles Haar, of York, who is aunt to the children, noticed the article in the paper, clipped it and sent it to her sister, Mrs. Walters, in Mt. Pleasant township.

This was the first knowledge either of the aunts had of their brother and his wife's deaths. As soon as it could be arranged, Mrs. Walters went to Washington to locate the children. The children were located at the Children's Home, where Mr. and Mrs. Walters entered negotiations to adopt them. Following the advice of those in charge of the institution, the 10 year old boy and the 12 year old girl were left at the institution in order that they might gain the advantages of an education. The youngest, a bright tot of three was adopted by them and brought to their home. The other children will be brought to the Walters' home after they have spent a year or two at the Children's Home.

ORPHANS FOUND AFTER A SEARCH

Three Little Nephews and Nieces of Mr. and Mrs. Walters, Mt. Pleasant Township, Find Relatives through Newspapers.

Victims of a peculiar chain of circumstances in which there is just a shade of mystery, three little orphans have recently been located to the great joy of their relatives. The three children are now comfortably located, the youngest, a bright child of three years, adding cheerfulness to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walters, of Storm's Store, Mt. Pleasant township, who have never known the joy of a bright youngster's prattle about the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jacobs died this spring just three weeks apart in Washington. MOST WORK DONE IN MENALLEN TWP.

Twelve Gangs of Men Take Charge of Roads in that Section and Accomplish Many Things. Other Townships Busy.

With 150 men and 100 horses at work, Menallen township broke all records in Adams county's observance of Good Roads Day. No less than twelve gangs of men responded to Governor Brumbaugh's call for a general turn-out to give the State better highways and in some parts of the township the men continued this morning in order to finish the work they had started on Wednesday.

Cutting down grades, leveling off the roads, removing stones, and other work occupied the full nine hours which the men put in. Three of the twelve gangs worked near Mount Tabor, three more above Wensville, two in the vicinity of Brysonia, and one each at Flora Dale, Aspers, Wensville, and West Point.

Franklin township had the next largest amount of activity. Here C. J. Deardorff, president of the Supervisors Association, had exerted special efforts to get out the residents and forty one men responded to the call, including a number from Cashtown. They were divided into squads and with a number of teams accomplished a great deal. Under the direction of the supervisors, the road scraper, and several drags were used. The scraper was placed on the road from Cashtown to Orrtanna and a vast improvement was made. About McKnightstown the men were also very busy, three road drags being used to go over thirteen miles of road. The Gettysburg suffragists were welcome visitors.

Cumberland township had thirty seven men at work with a number of teams, and in Highland township there were thirty three more. The laborers in these two districts were specially fortunate as they not only enjoyed the dainty lunches brought out by the Gettysburg suffragists, but were visited by wagons from the Gettysburg Ice and Storage Company which distributed free ice cream. Upper Huntingdon reported eighteen men and five teams; Hamiltonban twenty five men and ten teams; and Straban thirty men. Other townships also reported some work done.

And there were not a few individuals who, believing in the spirit of the day, went out on their own account and did several hours work.

The Gettysburg suffragists were welcome visitors in the five or six townships surrounding Gettysburg. They had prepared lunches of sandwiches, eggs, coffee and milk which were eagerly received and greatly relished by all who received them. The country was scoured for the gangs but, of the 300 lunches prepared, only about half were distributed, the call being more generally observed in the districts not so near the town.

U. S. SHIP HIT IN WAR ZONE

Nebraskan Torpedoed or Mined Off Ireland.

KONE OF CREW IS KILLED

Sailors Took to Small Boats, But Later Board Vessel Again and Start on Return to Liverpool.

London, May 27. — The American steamship Nebraskan was either torpedoed or struck a mine forty miles west-southwest of Fastnet, off the south coast of Ireland.

The Nebraskan passed Queenstown on her way back to Liverpool. The ship was proceeding under her own steam at eight knots an hour.

The Nebraskan, which was owned by the American-Hawaiian line, made her last trip to Liverpool under charter by the White Star line and was bound from Liverpool to the Delaware Breakwater, in water ballast, flying the American flag, when the mishap overtook her.

A message from Liverpool says that the name and nationality of the Nebraskan were painted in large letters on her sides.

The Nebraskan was down at the bows. She was proceeding under her own steam and flying the signal: "I am not under control."

That the Nebraskan may have been torpedoed was intimated by a dispatch from Crookhaven, Ireland, saying it was learned that a submarine was seen off the southern coast of Ireland. She was sighted near Galley Cove, which is about ten miles from Fastnet.

Several residents of Crookhaven sighted the submarine off Galley Cove, near the mouth of Little Creek. A man on shore fired two shots with a rifle at the men in the conning tower of the submarine.

The submarine dived immediately, but soon rose again further out, and three more shots were fired at her, and she again disappeared.

The Nebraskan, commanded by Captain Green, had left Liverpool on Monday. When she was struck, off the Irish coast, about thirty miles southwest of where the Lusitania was sunk, the sea was calm.

Immediately after she was struck the Nebraskan began calling for help by wireless. After sending the "S. O. S." call the crew took to the boats and stood by the steamship.

It was soon ascertained that the Nebraskan was not seriously damaged. She had been struck forward and her foreholds were full of water.

The crew returned on board and got the vessel under way. No lives were lost among the crew. The Nebraskan did not carry passengers.

The foregoing information was received by the British admiralty in London and was at once communicated to the American embassy.

The German submarine campaign is continuing actively. Dispatches from Norway say the people of that country have been aroused by the sinking last week of the Norwegian steamer Minerva and the attempt to torpedo the Iris, which went to her assistance.

The steamer Cromer, loaded with passengers, had a narrow escape from being torpedoed while bound for Rotterdam. A submarine fired a torpedo without warning. It missed the ship by only fifteen yards.

According to the captain's story to Rotterdam correspondents, the periscope was seen 500 yards distant, and then the wash of the torpedo, which was moving so rapidly that nothing could be done to avoid it. The attack occurred at a point four miles north of North Hinder Lightship.

BRITISH WARSHIP SUNK

Triumph Sent Down by Submarine While Operating in Dardanelles.

London, May 27.—The British battleship Triumph has been sunk in the Dardanelles.

The disaster to the Triumph is described in a brief statement by the admiralty, which says that while operating in support of the Australian and New Zealand forces on the shore of the Gallipoli peninsula the Triumph was torpedoed by a submarine and sank in about seven minutes.

The majority of the officers and men, including the captain and commander, are reported to have been saved. The submarine was chased by destroyers and patrolling craft until dark.

Judge Would Shoot Idiots.

Glasgow, Scotland, May 27.—Sitting in the sheriff's court, Judge Lee asserted that the only way to deal with men who fail to do their work on government tasks was to shoot them forthwith. His statement was called forth by charges that employees at certain plants had failed to perform their regular quota of work.

GREEK KING DYING

Suffers Relapse and Members of Royal Family Are Summoned. Athens, May 27.—King Constantine is believed to be dying. The royal family has been summoned to his bedside.

The condition of the king is considered critical owing to the apparent weakness of his heart. There was an abrupt fall in temperature to 95 on Tuesday and the patient's extremities began to grow cold.

The doctor administered stimulants and the temperature slowly rose to normal, but later the same weakness was noticeable, inspiring grave fears for the royal patient's powers of resistance.

FIRING ON NEBRASKA STIRS WASHINGTON

Many Incline to Belief Steamer Struck a Mine.

Washington, May 27. — The announcement of the British admiralty that the American steamship Nebraskan was torpedoed off the Irish coast caused a stir here second only to the shock felt when the news of the Lusitania sinking was received.

In view of the circumstances of the case officials find it very difficult to believe that the Nebraskan was torpedoed and are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the ship in port to learn what statement her captain and officers have to make about the case.

The press reports that the captain of the Nebraskan sent a message he had struck a "torpedo or a mine" were noted, and consequently officials are trying to suspend judgment until complete reports are received.

Should it develop that there is sufficient evidence to establish the admiralty report that the Nebraskan was torpedoed, the incident will be extremely serious, aggravating almost beyond measure the already delicate situation existing between the German and United States governments on the question of the German submarine operations.

That is why the opinion inclines to the belief that the Nebraskan struck a mine. It is regarded as inconceivable that the Germans would attack an American vessel outbound from England and therefore not carrying contraband, just at the moment when the Berlin government is preparing a reply to the American note regarding previous attacks on American life and the American flag. The only possible explanation is that it was a mistake on the part of the submarine commander.

ITALY BLOCKADES AUSTRIAN PORTS

Seeks to Bottle Up Enemy's Fleet at Bases.

KING LEAVES FOR THE FRONT

Teutonic Strategy Outwitted in Clash of Invaders, Now Twenty-two Miles From Trieste.

Rome, May 27. — Aggressive naval action on the part of Italy, whose army of 300,000 men is closing in on Trieste along a sixty-mile front, was accompanied by the declaration of a blockade of all Austro-Hungarian ports.

The Italian fleet is supporting the army in its circular drive around the head of the Adriatic. The Austrian fleet has for its bases the ports of Trieste, Pola, Fiume and Sene Venico, from which Italy's naturally undefended Adriatic coast is subject to repeated raids, such as those of Monday. The Italian strategy evidently contemplates bottling up the enemy's fleet as England has Germany's.

The Italian war bureau's statement announces the capture of more Austrian towns, with the army making rapid progress against a feeble resistance, and now is hardly more than a score of miles from Trieste, its objective.

King Victor Emmanuel left for the front amid the jubilation of the people, enthused by the reports of unclouded Italian success.

While Austria struck first with her air and sea squadrons, the Italian general staff apparently has forestalled Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who is reported to be in command of the Teuton allies on the new front. One of the von Hindenburg mottoes is "Hit first." Whether he expected an attack in another direction or whether the Austro-German defenses along the Isonzo were not complete, the fact remains that the Italians advanced to the vicinity of Gorz, twenty-two miles from Trieste) with the loss of hardly a man.

The ability of the Italian army to launch an offensive within thirty-six hours after the declaration of war seems to indicate the enormous amount of work accomplished in the last ten months by General Cordan, the chief of staff.

A novel situation exists in the relations between Germany and Italy. Formally no state of war exists between the two countries, but Prince von Buelow is said to have informed the Italian government before leaving Rome that German troops were so closely intermingled with the Austro-Hungarian forces that Italy, in making war against an Austro-Hungarian army, faced the danger of firing upon German soldiers. The ambassador is reported to have pointed out that Germany naturally would regard this as an unfriendly act and would take steps accordingly.

A telegram from Berlin by way of Rotterdam says that Germany and Italy have agreed neither to intern civilians nor seize their property in case of war.

TEUTONS BEFORE PRZEMYSL

Austro-Germans on Three Sides of Galician Stronghold.

Berlin, May 27.—Austrian correspondents who have been visiting the besieging armies before Przemyśl report that the fortress is enclosed on three sides and that the railroad running eastward to Lemberg is under the Austrian artillery fire. The Russian garrison has communication with the rear only by minor roads.

The Austro-Germans are only a few hundred yards from the advanced works, and some of these have been brought under fire, but a regular bombardment has not been undertaken.

The new Przemyśl cannot perhaps be called a fortress, but it is a very strongly entrenched camp, and a regular bombardment will be required to reduce it.

Masked, Slashes Circus Girl.

South Bethlehem, Pa., May 27.—Returning to her boarding place from the Washburn Midway Shows, where she is employe as the "electricity lady," Rose Bennett, twenty-two years old, was attacked by a masked man, who slashed her cheek with a razor, inflicting a seven-inch wound. She is disabled for life.

Templars Bar Liquor Men.

Philadelphia, May 27.—The denial of membership in the future to all persons "directly or indirectly" connected with the liquor business was overwhelmingly adopted under a resolution at the closing session of the sixty-second annual convocation of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Pennsylvania.

John Horner and His Job.

Richmond, Va., May 27.—John Horner, of this city, wrote to the Dupont Powder company at Hopewell a few days ago in quest of a job. He received an application blank, one of the leading questions being: "Where do you want your body sent?" Horner replied that he preferred taking his chances of getting a job elsewhere.

KING OF RUMANIA.

Expected to Follow Italy Into War and Join Allies.

Dr. E. J. Dillon, the Rome correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, telegraphs:

"I am convinced that Rumania will join the allies, but she is as yet undecided. Her attitude is characterized by psychological misgivings rather than political embarrassments. Premier Bratianu is cautious incarnate. He stands for the moment and an evenly balanced points of paralyzing doubt."

ENDS MOTHER'S PAIN AND LIFE WITH DRUG

Daughter Chloroforms Sufferer While Nurse is Absent.

Philadelphia, May 27.—Miss Bertha Kreiber, aged forty-two, who could not bear to see her aged mother, Mrs. Phoebe Kreiber, aged sixty-three, suffer, shortened her aged woman's life by two hours at the Episcopal hospital, according to physicians, by laying a bit of gauze saturated with chloroform over her face.

Miss Kreiber then went to a bench in an isolated spot in the grounds of the hospital and tried to end her own life by the same means.

Mrs. Kreiber had been in the hospital since March 25, paralyzed as the result of a hip fracture sustained in a fall down stairs.

For three nights Miss Kreiber had been sitting wide-eyed at the bedside of her mother. The aged woman was near death. Physicians said she would die in a few hours. Most of the time she was unconscious and she suffered little pain, but her condition was wearing on the nerves of her daughter.

Miss Kreiber entered the hospital with a small satchel. She went to her mother's bedside in the surgical ward. The nurse who cared for Mrs. Kreiber had about twenty-five other patients in her charge, and after speaking to the visitor she went to another part of the hospital.

When she returned a half hour later she found a pillow over Mrs. Kreiber's face. She summoned one of the staff physicians. Beneath the pillow over the nose of the aged woman he found a small piece of gauze. It smelled strongly of chloroform. He examined the woman and found that she was dead. Her daughter had disappeared.

The police were called and Miss Kreiber was found in a dazed condition on a bench in the grounds of the hospital. After being resuscitated she was taken to the police station and later allowed to return to her home under surveillance.

SHOT BALD EAGLE

Rare Bird Captured by Fourteen Year Old Boy.

Dewey, the 14-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bucher, of near Bonneauville, while in the woods near his home hunting crows, shot a bald eagle. The bird measured 6 feet 7 inches from tip to tip of wings and 32 inches from bill to end of tail feathers. The first shot from the gun brought the bird in a crippled condition from the branch of a high tree to the ground, but when the boy attempted to capture it, put up a savage fight, and he was obliged to shoot it a second time. The bird was exhibited at New Oxford and then taken to the home of Charles G. Miller to be mounted. The plumage showed that the bird was less than three years old.

CALLS TO ARMS STIR PEACE MEN

Lake Mohonk Arbitrationists Hear of Defense Needs.

TOLD TO FACE BARE FACTS

Dr. Grier Hibben, Secretary Garrison
and General Wood Plead Before Conference Cause of Adequate Preparation of United States, Not For War,
but Against Sudden Aggression.

Never in the twenty-one years of its existence has the Lake Mohonk
conference on international arbitration
heard such calls to arms as signalized
its gathering this year. The 200 delegates from all parts of the country were practically all peace men. They were told to "face facts," and the appeal stirred them.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, President
Wilson's successor as president of Princeton university, fired the first shell. He advocated "a wide preparedness, not for, but against war."

"This is not a question of mere academic interest which we are discussing," said President Hibben. "We are as a nation looking into a future that is dark and mysterious. In the high tension of international hate and international suspicion the most insignificant accident may chance to precipitate for us a national catastrophe.
And in the great emergency, if it should come, what will we say? Peace?
Peace at any price?"

Don't Trade Honor For Peace.
"But let us not forget that there are some things which cannot buy peace.
If we sacrifice them in order to secure peace the peace thus sought comes before us the very torment of a living hell. We dare not trade honor for peace; we dare not betray duty in order that we may bargain for peace;
we dare not indulge ourselves in the
enjoyment of the blessings of peace
while we turn deaf ears to the cry of distress or to the summons of a righteous cause."

Later came Lindley M. Garrison, secretary for war, who saw no immediate prospect of war giving place to either peaceful or forceful arbitration, and called on his hearers to "look facts
fearlessly in the face and act accordingly."
"We will be despised among the nations of the earth," he said, "and our righteousness will not save us from the aggressions of the unrighteous if we remain weak and flabby. We must be ready to make war in order to keep the blessings of peace."
"Self preservation is the first law of a nation. A nation to deserve preservation must be sane, just, righteous,
self respecting and courageous."
"Since it only obtained those virtues
by conflict of one sort or another, it can only retain them and thus insure
its own preservation by being prepared
in every proper way to defend them
from the inevitable assaults which will be made against them."
"Peace—yes; peace based upon righteousness—yes; Militarism—No; Dogma—No."
"Militarism is used as a term of reproach to divert proper consideration of what must be considered. Militarism in the sense of having the military force interfere in the slightest with the conduct of our government by our civil authorities is not conceivable in this country."

"We are surely not so deluded as to believe that we can reach by intuition
what others can only acquire by training and experience."
"We, as a nation, are exceptionally set apart only in one respect—namely,
the freedom of our people under our institutions to develop and expand and make the most of themselves without fetters or restrictions. The institutions are the very Ark of the Covenant, and if we are worthy to possess them, we must show that we cherish them and will protect and defend them."
"Our lack of aggressive intention and our righteous intentions minimize the sources and causes of war, but we ourselves have frequently been at war.
Our isolation has not, as a fact, assured our freedom from conflict, and other nations relatively as isolated have been involved in war, and no sound reason can be adduced which would justify a sane man in concluding that isolation alone spells safety. Furthermore, our isolation is geographical only."

Would Be Murder, Says Wood.
Then spoke Major General Leonard
Wood, pressing home the same point.
"We soldiers and sailors are merely your trained servants," said General Wood. "You create wars; we try to eliminate them. Nine out of ten wars are based on trade. The trouble with most conferences of this kind is that they do not look conditions in the face.
We must not delude ourselves that our geographical remoteness has made us safe."

"This is one of the great causes of armament—this and the greater efficiency of the implements of war. When we have ceased to fight for our honest convictions we shall cease to be worthy to exist as a nation."
"It is murder for you to send your boys to war untrained when it is possible to train them. All we soldiers and sailors want is that you give us a reasonable degree of preparation, so that when your boys come to us to fight the sacrifice may be as light as possible."

The First Perfumes.
When you use perfume and call it
such, do you think how the name
came about? It means, in Latin,
"from smoke," and the name proves that the first perfumes were only aromatic woods or gums that scented
the air when burned.

ELEVEN NATIONS IN WAR; THREE MORE LIKELY.

Eleven nations are now involved in the great European conflict. The lineup is as follows:
Russia,
France,
Great Britain,
Belgium,
Serbia,
Montenegro,
Japan,
Italy.
Three others are expected to go in almost immediately. These are Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece.
Before the entrance of Italy the cost of the war in actual expenditure was estimated by Captain Edmond Thery, a widely known French economist, at $2,000,000 an hour every hour of the day and night.

MORE THAN $1,965 EACH IS WEALTH OF AMERICA.

Every Man, Woman and Child Accredited With That Sum in 1912.

Every man, woman and child in the United States in 1912 is accredited with $1,965 and the entire nation with a grand total of $187,739,000,000 in a bulletin by the census bureau on the national wealth in that year. Today
the total is more.

The report shows that the country is getting richer and that since 1850 each person is six times richer than he was in 1850, or, rather, six times richer than his parents or grandparents. For in 1850 the total wealth of the nation
was $7,136,000,000, or $308 per capita.
The wealth of the nation in 1912 was twenty-five times greater than in 1850.
While New York heads the list with the greatest wealth, Nevada stands at the top in the per capita allotment of wealth.

New York's wealth in 1912 is given as $25,011,000,000, with Illinois and Pennsylvania running neck and neck
for second place with $15,484,000,000
and $15,458,000,000 respectively. Nevada has a per capita wealth of $4,865,
with Iowa second and North Dakota
third.
The latest published estimates of the wealth of foreign countries show $108, 280,000,000 for the British empire in 1903, of which amount $72,957,000,000
was credited to the United Kingdom.
The estimate for the United States in 1904 was $107,104,000,000. The wealth of Germany in 1908 was estimated at $77,864,000,000. Comparable estimates are not available for other nations.

PRESIDENT PRAISES FLEET.

In Message to Admiral Fletcher, He Urges Increase of Navy.

On his return to the White House
after the review of the navy President Wilson sent the following message to Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, commander of the fleet.
"I was greatly struck by the appearance of the fleet and the quiet efficiency shown by the officers and men, as I am sure every one must have been who had the pleasure of seeing it assembled at New York.
"There could have been no more interesting verification of Admiral Dewey's statement that the navy was never
in a better or more efficient condition
and that the country has every reason not only to be proud of it, but every reason to wish to go forward in its policy of steadily adding to its strength
and equipment."

WANTS FOURTEENTH IDEAL.

Indiana Woman Says She Was Careless in Choosing Thirteenth.

Mrs. Polly Anne Weld Strodes of Evansville, Ind., who is seventy years old and has been married thirteen times, announced the other day that she will divorce her present husband
as quickly as she ever disposed of one
in her life and will marry a man who is her ideal. She and Strodes had just had a tiff, and she shut him out.
"I have an ideal," said Mrs. Strodes,
"and I will bless the day when I can rest my head upon his shoulder and say, 'At peace, darling.'"
"I have had some of the most desirable husbands in Indiana and I am competent to judge a good one when I see him. All except Harrison Strodes;
I was very careless in selecting him."

Known, Brings $210 at Auction.

In the sale of a coin collection in New York city $170 was paid for an uncirculated dime of 1873, Carson City
mint, without arrows.
An uncirculated quarter dollar of 1884, only one other in this country being known, sold for $47. An uncirculated quarter dollar of 1897 brought $40. A quarter dollar of 1842, small date, went for $75. A quarter dollar of 1866, without motto, the only known specimen, brought $210. An uncirculated quarter dollar of 1858, San Francisco mint, went for $42.

WAR CAUSES PROXY WEDDING

French Lawyer at Front, Friend Takes Weeping Bride to Altar.

The first marriage by proxy ever permitted in Paris has just been celebrated in the city hall, in the Latin quarter. Alfred Lorin, the bridegroom, a Paris attorney who is now a soldier in the Seventy-first infantry at the front,
was represented by his friend, Firmin
Song. The bride was Mlle. Marie Martigny.
The ceremony was performed in strict privacy, and the bride wept as she made the responses.

To Clean an Old Painting.

museum cleans old paintings by rubbing the varnish with cotton batting dipped in four parts of methylated
spirits and one of turpentine, but it requires considerable skill to stop at the

BALDWIN OPPOSES STANDPIPE IDEA GREAT DAY FOR OPENING GAMES

Automobile Engine the Solution of Gettysburg's Problem Says State
Official. Water Company need not Furnish Pressure.

"I do not take at all to the stand-
pipe proposition which I understand
has been advanced as a solution to the question of better fire protection
in Gettysburg," said State Fire Marshall Baldwin who visited the town
Wednesday and held a conference
with a committee of the town council.
"What you need, and ought to have,
is a triple combination automobile apparatus with chemical, hook and ladder, and hose equipment."

"You are observing a system which is penny wise and pound foolish. The fact that your present apparatus was good enough twenty five years ago is no reason why it should be good enough now, even though some of your people seem to think so. You have plenty of water supply here—
there is no question about that—but you need apparatus to throw it."

Asked whether he did not think the equipment suggested was adapted
rather to a large town than to a borough the size of Gettysburg, Mr.
Baldwin answered,

"Most decidedly no. It is exactly what you need. I know one western town with 15,000 people with three paid fire companies. Here you have one third the population and see what means you have for fire protection.
Don't wait until after a disaster, get
it now, and save your present engine for an emergency."

Mr. Baldwin, when asked about the liability of the Gettysburg Water Company to furnish not only water
but pressure, said that their responsibility was at an end when the water was on hand, and that it was up to the town to furnish the pressure for fire purposes.

25 BERT BERT CASES ON SHIP

N. Y. Health Officer Gets Report of Approach of Pest Ship.

New York, May 27. — A veritable
pest ship is nearing New York, according to a wireless message received by Health Officer O'Connell.

The message said that the British steamship Dewa, laden with sugar,
from Cienfuegos, had twenty-five cases
of bert bert among her crew of forty men, and that eight men had died
of the malady since the vessel sailed.

The Dewa is reported to have sailed
from Havana on May 4 for Cienfuegos. Apparently she made the port and departed for New York.

Gettysburg Fans Off to Hanover to See Patriots in First Real Test
Big Celebrations in Three League Towns.

Batter up! The Blue Ridge League
is a reality and the game is on.

In six towns the fans are watching eagerly the outcome of the first day's games in the infant organization,
from present indications destined to become a mighty strong youngster
before it is many weeks old. In Chambersburg, in Frederick, and in Hanover the new born league was welcomed with parades, with music, and with demonstrations. Half holidays were declared in all three towns and no base ball season was ever started more auspiciously. Record attendance was prophesied at each place.

Gettysburg vs Hanover is the issue that is attracting the attention of our own fans and the way they turned out to the opening contest would do credit to a much larger place. Automobiles took them to the neighboring city by the dozen and the afternoon train carried many more. All were enthusiastic and hoping for the best.
Bill Stair was Plank's announced
pitcher but the remainder of the lineup was more or less uncertain until
the hour for calling the game.

Hanover itself was fairly base ball crazy to-day. Most of the large stores and some of the manufacturing plants closed down this afternoon
to allow all to go to the field. A parade worthy of the game preceded the game and it was a gala day. Gettysburg hopes to duplicate it to-morrow.

Chambersburg and Frederick showed spirit seldom surpassed in these towns, according to word received this afternoon, and the receipts for the opening games will run far into the hundreds. With good contests anticipated in each place, and return
games at Gettysburg, Hagerstown
and Martinsburg to-morrow the total of the pool should provide substantial funds for the members of the league.

As to our own game to-day prophesies are numerous and varied. The showing made against the college boys
on Tuesday shook the confidence in the Patriots but several of the weaker players of that day are gone to return no more, and able men are said
to have been secured to fill their places.
But, win or lose, Gettysburg is determined to accord the most hearty support to the directors, to Manager
Plank, and to his men.

The college authorities have announced finally that their students
may not play at all on the town nine until after the close of school, and until that time the present aggregation will be doing its utmost to uphold the honor of Gettysburg in the Blue Ridge League, the most recent and decidedly promising product of organized base ball.

Only one college boy will be with the town team before June 9, and that is Earl Howard, the pitcher, who joins the Patriots on Monday.

PEAR MIDGE HERE

First Time in History of State. Surface Finds Destructive Pest.

The pear midge has come to the State of Pennsylvania for the first time and is not a welcome visitor.

Professor H. A. Surface, State Economic Zoologist, so announced, after examination of several abnormally
large young pears that were shipped to him by a Philadelphia county
grower with an inquiry as to the identity of certain worms that were found near the cores.

These worms, Professor Surface
says, are pear midges. They are very destructive to the fruit, and never before have appeared in Pennsylvania.
They appeared first in Connecticut
forty years ago, gradually spread into
New York and New Jersey and have now come to this State to add to the worrisome of fruit growers. The midge multiplies very fast.

Professor Surface says it cannot be killed by spraying, but it has been more or less successfully combated in Jersey by scattering 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of kaint to an acre. This, however, is recommended only for sandy soil, as on some soils it damages the trees. Where the pear midge occurs
the ground should be cultivated by shallow cultivation during June and July. As it goes to a depth of only one inch or two, it can be destroyed by this means in its earthen cells.

Professor Surface is going to make a special study of the midge to devise
a better way of killing it off.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built
co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions.
The last—on February 1st—
brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires
have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

Our Fortified Tire is still
"On-Air" cured to save blow-

us $450,000

Getting the Dealer's Attention

When a manufacturer advertises his product in the newspapers he immediately secures attention from the retailers.

They are newspaper readers and many of them advertisers

The retailers know that the manufacturers' newspaper
advertising will be read by their customers.

They know there will be calls for the goods.

Their natural disposition is to co-operate and get as much business for themselves as they can.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Le Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune.

CHAPTER II—Sabron dines with the Marquise d'Esclagnac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American heiress, who sings for him an English ballad that lingers in his memory.

CHAPTER III—Sabron, trying to save Pitchoune's life, declines a second invitation to dinner because of a "very sick friend."

CHAPTER IV—No more invitation comes from the Chateau d'Esclagnac. Pitchoune, though lame from his accident, thrives and is devoted to Sabron.

CHAPTER V—Sabron and Pitchoune meet the Marquise and Miss Redmond and after the story of Pitchoune is told Sabron is forgiven and invited to dinner again.

CHAPTER VI—Sabron is ordered to Algeria but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. He is invited to a musicale at the Chateau.

CHAPTER VII—At the musicale Miss Redmond, hearing that Sabron cannot take Pitchoune with him, offers to take care of the dog during his master's absence.

CHAPTER VIII—Pitchoune, homelocked for his master, runs away from Miss Redmond. The Marquise plans to marry Julia to the Duc de Tremont.

CHAPTER IX—Unknown to Sabron, Pitchoune follows him to Algeria.

CHAPTER XI—In his desert camp Sabron receives a letter from Julia telling him that Pitchoune has run away from her.

CHAPTER XIII—Sabron, wounded in an engagement, falls into the dry bed of a river, and is watched over by Pitchoune. After a horrible night and day Pitchoune leaves him.

CHAPTER XIV—Julia goes in search of Sabron, reported missing.

CHAPTER XVI—Tremont has doubts about Julia's red cross mission.

CHAPTER XVII—After long search Julia gets trace of Sabron's whereabouts.

CHAPTER XVIII—Julia for the moment turns matchmaker in behalf of Tremont.

CHAPTER XIX—Hammet Abou tells the Marquise where he thinks Sabron may be found.

CHAPTER XX—Tremont decides to go with Hammet Abou to find Sabron.

CHAPTER XXI—Pitchoune finds a village, twelve hours journey away, and somehow makes Hammet Abou understand his master's desperate plight. Sabron is rescued by the village men but grows weaker without proper care.

CHAPTER XXII—Tremont goes into the desert with the caravan in search of Sabron. Julia follows with Madame de la Maine, whom Tremont loves.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Meeting.

Under the sun, under the starry nights Tremont, with his burden, journeyed toward the north. The halts were distasteful to him, and although he was forced to rest he would rather have been cursed with sleeplessness and have journeyed on and on. He rode like a Bedouin; he grew brown like the Bedouins and under the hot breezes, swaying on his desert ship, he sank into dreamy, moody and melancholy reveries, like the wandering men of the Sahara, and felt himself part of the desolation, as they were.

"What will be, will be!" Hammet Abou said to him a hundred times, and Tremont wondered: "Will Charles live to see Algiers?"

Sabron journeyed in a litter carried between six mules, and they traveled slowly, slowly. Tremont rode by the sick man's side day after day. Not once did the soldier for any length of time regain his reason. He would pass from coma to delirium, and many times Tremont thought he had ceased to breathe. Slender, emaciated under his covers, Sabron lay like the image of a soldier in wax—a wounded man carried as a votive offering to the altars of desert warfare.

At night as he lay in his bed in his tent, Tremont and Hammet Abou cooled his temples with water from the earthen bottles, where the sweet ooze stood out humid and refreshing on the damp clay. They gave him acid and cooling drinks, and now and then Sabron would smile on Tremont, calling him "petit frere," and Tremont heard the words with moisture in his eyes, remembering what he had said to the Marquise d'Esclagnac about being Sabron's brother. Once or twice the soldier murmured a woman's name, but Tremont could not catch it, and once he said to the duke:

"Sing! Sing!"

The Frenchman obeyed docilely, humming in an agreeable barytone the snatches of song he could remember, "La Pille de Madame Angot," "Il Trovatore," running them into more modern opera, "La Veuve Joyeuse." But the lines creased in Sabron's forehead indicated that the singer had not yet found the music which haunted the memory of the sick man.

"Sing!" he would repeat, fixing his hollow eyes on his companion, and Tremont complied faithfully. Finally, his own thoughts going back to early days, he hummed tunes that he and a certain little girl had sung at their games in the alleys of an old chateau in the valley of the Inhere.

"Sonnez les matines Ding-din-don."

and other children's melodies.

In those nights, on that desolate way, alone, in a traveling tent, at the side of a man he scarcely knew, Robert de Tremont learned serious lessons. He had been a soldier himself, but his life had been an inconsequent one. He had lived as he liked, behind him always the bitterness of an early deception. But he had been too young to break his heart at seventeen. He had lived through much since the day his father exiled him to Africa.

There had become a dream, a memory around which he did not at all ways let his thoughts linger. When he had seen her again after her husband's death and found her free, he was already absorbed in the worldly life of an ambitious young man. He had not known how much he loved her until in the Villa des Bougainvillies he had seen and contrasted her with Julia Redmond.

All the charm for him of the past returned, and he realized that, as money goes, he was poor—she was poorer.

The difficulties of the marriage made him all the more secure in his determination that nothing should separate him again from this woman.

By Sabron's bed he hummed his little insignificant tunes, and his heart longed for the woman. When once or twice on the return journey they had been threatened by the engulfing sand storm he had prayed not to die before he could again clasp her in his arms.

Sweet, tantalizing, exquisite with the passion of young love, there came to him the memories of the moonlight nights on the terrace of the old chateau. He saw her in the pretty girl's dresses of long ago, the melancholy droop of her quivering mouth, her bare young arms, and smelled the fragrance of her hair as he kissed her. So humming his soothing melodies to the sick man, with his voice softened by his memories, he soothed Sabron.

Sabron closed his eyes, the creases in his forehead disappeared as though brushed away by a tender hand. Perhaps the sleep was due to the fact that, unconsciously, Tremont slipped into humming a tune which Miss Redmond had sung in the Villa des Bougainvillies, and of whose English words Le Tremont was quite ignorant.

"Will he last until Algiers, Hammet Abou?"

"What will be will be, monsieur!" Abou replied.

"He must," De Tremont answered fiercely. "He shall."

He became serious and meditative on those silent days, and his blue eyes, where the very whites were burned, began to wear the far-away, mysterious look of the traveler across long distances. During the last sad storm he stood, with the camels, round Sabron's litter, a human shade and shield, and when the storm ceased he felt like one dead, and the Arabs pulled off his boots and put him to bed like a child.

One sundown, as they traveled into the afterglow with the East behind them, when Tremont thought he could not endure another day of the voyage, when the pallor and waxiness of Sabron's face were like death itself, Hammet Abou, who rode ahead, cried out and pulled up his camel short. He waved his arm.

Threatened by the Engulfing Sand-storm.

"A caravan, monsieur."

In the distance they saw the tents, like lotus leaves, scattered on the pink sands, and the dark shadows of the Arabs and the couchant beasts, and the glow of the encampment fire.

"An encampment, monsieur!" Tremont sighed. He drew the curtain of the litter and looked in upon Sabron, who was sleeping. His set features, the growth of his uncut beard, the long fringe of his eyes, his dark hair upon his forehead, his wan transparency—with the peace upon his face, he might have been a figure of Christ waiting for sepulture.

Tremont cried to him: "Sabron, mon vieux Charles, reveille-toi! We are in sight of human beings!"

but Sabron gave no sign that he heard or cared.

Throughout the journey across the desert, Pitchoune had ridden at his will and according to his taste, sometimes journeying for the entire day perched upon Tremont's camel. He sat like a little figurehead or a mascot, with ears pointed northward and his keen nose sniffing the desert air. Sometimes he would take the same position on one of the mules that carried Sabron's litter, at his master's feet. There he would lie hour after hour, with his soft eyes fixed with understanding sympathy upon Sabron's face.

He was, as he had been to Fatou Ann, a kind of fetish—the caravan adored him. Now from his position at Sabron's feet, he crawled up and licked his master's hand.

"Charles!" Tremont cried, and lifted the soldier's hand.

Sabron opened his eyes. He was sane. The glimmer of a smile touched his lips. He said Tremont's name, recognized him. "Are you home?" he asked weakly. "Is it France?"

Tremont turned and dashed away a tear.

He drew the curtains of the litter and now walked beside it, his legs feeling like cotton and his heart beating.

As they came up toward the encampment, two people rode out to meet them, two women in white riding habits, on stallions, and as the evening breeze fluttered the veils from their helmets, they seemed to be flags of welcome.

Under his helmet Tremont was red

and burned. He had a short, rough growth of beard.

Therese de la Maine and Julia Redmond rode up. Tremont recognized them, and came forward, half staggering. He looked at Julia and smiled, and pointed with his left hand toward the litter; but he went directly up to Madame de la Maine, who sat immovably on her little stallion. Tremont seemed to gather her in his arms. He lifted her down to him.

Julia Redmond's eyes were on the litter, whose curtains were stirring in the breeze. Hammet Abou, with a profound salaam, came forward to her. "Mademoiselle," he said, respectfully, "he lives. I have kept my word."

Pitchoune sprang from the litter and ran over the sands to Julia Redmond. She dismounted from her horse alone and called him: "Pitchoune! Pitchoune!" Kneeling down on the desert, she stooped to caress him, and he crouched at her feet, licking her hands.

Blancmange With Oranges.—Mix four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with one-half cupful of cold milk, pour gradually into one and one-half cupfuls of hot milk, cover and cook twenty minutes in a double boiler, stirring occasionally. Add the yolks of two eggs beaten with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, stir and cook three minutes longer and turn into a dish which will stand the heat of the oven. Sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, cool, cover with a meringue made of the beaten whites, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a few drops of orange, brown lightly and chill. At serving time surround with thin slices of orange.

Baked Eggs With Cheese.—Butter a shallow baking dish, cover with a layer of grated cheese, break over it carefully the required number of fresh eggs, cover with cheese and sprinkle with pepper, salt and paprika. Pour in two tablespoonfuls of cream for each egg, cover with soft breadcrumbs moistened with melted butter, then dust with mustard, paprika and salt and bake until the cheese is melted.

Graham Nut Bread.—Mix and sift together two cupfuls of graham flour, a cupful of white flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful of baking powder and a teaspoonful of salt. Add one-half cupful of brown sugar, one-eighth cupful of molasses and three-quarters cupful each of water and milk. Beat well, stir in a scant cupful of broken nut meats and bake in a moderate oven.

Plain Coffee Jelly.

Two cupfuls of coffee, one-half cupful sugar, one heaping tablespoonful of gelatin. Heat all together and strain; serve cold with whipped cream sweetened and flavored.

Coffee Cream.

Here is an inexpensive dessert. Into a double boiler put two-thirds of a quart of strained coffee, add milk until a quart of the mixture is obtained; sweeten to taste. Place over hot water and bring to boiling point. Add six level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in milk. Cook ten minutes, stirring constantly until thick. Chill and serve with sugar and cream.

PEACE AND REUNION

Taps: "Lights Out!"

In Memoriam 1915

By FREDERICK K. MEES

Death
No more a smile illumines the face,
No more in their accustomed place
Will they appear,
Our comrades dear,
Their mortal clay
Will soon decay.
Our friends are dead.

Death
It cannot be—their frailty
Has put on immortality
And with the sun
Its ages run
Oh blessed thought,
By Jesus bought,
They live.

They live
In this the present age
Our prayers and hopes presage
Their master's welcome voice
Will bid them all rejoice,
Proclaim the victory won
And to them say "Well done,"
Thou hero.

"Will last
This nation grand will be
From stain of slavery free,
And to the watching world
With flag of peace unfurled
Will register the day
That o'er these forms of clay
The sounding bugle stirred,
"Lights out" was heard,
In Taps.

Oh done!
Thy servants, Lord, obey
Thy call. While we on earth do pray
"Thy will be done."
And may the King, thy Son,
Be near us when we say,
As we lay the forms away
That on these mounds of clay
May friends sweet flowers sprout
On each Memorial Day.

GERM OF IMMORTAL ADDRESS

Proof That Lincoln Long Had in Mind
Right Idea of What the War Meant.

Hay referred to Brown's suggestion that the North should subjugate the South, exterminate the whites, set up a black republic, and protect the negroes "while they raised our cotton."

"Some of our Northerners seem bewildered and dazzled by the excitement of the hour," Lincoln replied. "Do little seems inclined to think that this war is to result in the entire abolition of slavery. Old Colonel Hamilton, a venerable and most respectable gentleman, impress upon me most earnestly the propriety of enlisting the slaves in our army."

I told him his daily mail was thickly interspersed with such suggestions. "For my own part," he said, "I consider the central idea pervading this struggle is the necessity that is upon us of proving that popular government is not an absurdity. We must settle this question now, whether in a free government the minority have the right to break up the government whenever they choose. If we fail, we will go far to prove the incapability of the people to govern themselves. There may be one consideration used in stay of such final judgment, but that is not for us to use in advance: That is that there exists in our case an instance of a vast and far-reaching disturbing element which the history of no other free nation will probably ever present. That, however, is not for us to say at present. Taking the government as we found it, we will see if the majority can preserve it."

This statement, spoken offhand to his secretary, reveals the foundation of Lincoln's judgment on the Civil war; there was at stake something more precious than the preservation of the Union, something more urgent than the abolition of slavery—and that was democracy. Two years and a half later, in his address at Gettysburg, he put into one imperishable sentence the thought of which this was the germ.—From the Diary of John Hay, edited by William Roscoe Thayer for Harper's Magazine.

Devil's Nickname.

Why the term "Old Scratch" means the devil is not plain until you examine the Swedish, where the word skrat means devil. In the middle high German the word schratte means fiend or ghost.

AN EASY WAY TO END

CATARRH FOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of this Dangerous Disease.

The air is always full of catarrh germs thrown off by one person and absorbed by another and when your system fails to throw off such germs they find permanent lodgement in his nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly. You must kill these germs before you can cure catarrh.

The germs of catarrh can be best destroyed by inhaling the pure medicated air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei). This splendid and powerful combination of oil of Eucalyptus with other healing agents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe its air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which The People's Drug Store and other leading druggists have in Gettysburg and vicinity supply with every treatment. This medicated air is certain death to the germs of catarrh and drives them completely out of your system and when the germs are destroyed the catarrh with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. As Hyomei is pleasant to breathe and is always sold by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand-mother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. DOUGHERTY AND HARTLEY

TWO SHIPS IN CRASH AT SEA

The Ryndam Nearly Sunk in Collision With Freighter.

WARSHIPS TAKE PASSENGERS

Answer Wireless Calls and Relieve Norwegian Ship of Seventy-seven Passengers and 160 of Crew.

New York, May 27. — The Dutch liner Ryndam, which sailed from this port for Rotterdam with seventy-seven passengers and a $1,000,000 cargo, was badly damaged in a collision fifteen miles southwest of the Nantucket Shoals lightship with the tramp freighter Joseph J. Cuneo, which sailed from Boston for Baracoa, Cuba.

Both vessels were seriously injured. The Ryndam, wireless reports indicate, was struck with such aft that hold No. 5 filled almost immediately, water flowed freely into the engine room and began to creep up in hold No. 6. The Cuneo's bows were smashed in.

"S. O. S." signals were flashed from the Ryndam's wireless and her passengers were transferred hastily to the Cuneo. One hundred and sixty of the Ryndam's crew of 200 also were put aboard the freighter, leaving only forty men aboard the liner to navigate it.

United States battleships in the vicinity answered the wireless calls. Three hours after the collision the battleship South Carolina was standing alongside the Cuneo, and the Ryndam's passengers and those of her crew who had been transferred to the Cuneo were taken off by her. The battleship was directed by wireless from the Newport navy yard to convey the stricken liner to New York.

With the South Carolina alongside, the battleship Texas ten miles astern, the battleship Louisiana in the near vicinity and the Cuneo slowly following, the Ryndam started at slow speed for New York.

A wireless message from her captain said that the chances for saving the steamship were good. She was then lying very low in the water, drawing thirty-six feet, or approximately six feet more than when she sailed with her usual cargo. Her cargo, it is believed, was badly damaged. The cargo of the Cuneo, valued roughly at $500,000, also was said to be seriously damaged.

There were only six Americans among the passengers. The other passengers were Europeans returning to their homes.

The American cabin passengers included Mrs. Martha Daly, New York; Miss Crete Egerer, Baltimore; Miss Wilhelmina A. Engel, Boston; Mrs. Martha Hebel, New York; Henry L. Van Praag, New York, and Paul Kuhn, of Philadelphia.

The arrival of the war vessels virtually insured the safety of those of the crew of the Ryndam who had remained on board to navigate her as long as she remained afloat.

UPHOLDS TARIFF REBATE

Court Holds Imports From Favored Nations Get Same Discount. Washington, May 27.—The clause of the Underwood-Simmons tariff act granting a rebate of 5 per cent in duties on goods imported to the United States in American bottoms was upheld by the court of customs appeals.

The court held, however, that all merchandise imported in the vessels of nations with which the United States has so-called favored nation treaties must receive a similar discount. The case probably will be appealed to the supreme court.

As the United States has favored nation treaties with nearly all important commercial powers, the effect of the decision will be largely to reduce tariff revenues.

A similar exploit of the British submarine E-4 was reported early this week. The E-4 sank two transports and a gunboat recently.

BECKER TO DIE WEEK OF JULY 12
New York, May 27.—The court of appeals at Albany fixed the week beginning July 12 for the execution of former police lieutenant Charles Becker, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

This court had previously affirmed Becker's second conviction. The death warrant was signed by the judges of the court and forwarded to Warden Osborne at Sing Sing prison. Governor Whitman continued to remain silent on the case.

Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for Becker, is planning to visit the condemned man at Sing Sing to confer with him concerning future action. When told of the court's decision Becker said: "It's awful. I am worried about how it will affect my wife. She has been so good to me." Other reports from the death cell quoted Becker as saying he would not appeal from the decision, adding: "It will only delay matters. Let them set the date; I am ready."

Mr. Manton agreed with Becker in stating that no attempt will be made to obtain executive clemency from Governor Whitman. District Attorney Perkins said that in his opinion Becker's only chance of escaping the electric chair is in an appeal to the governor.

A BLOUSE THAT IS SMART AND CHARMING.

Waist of white linen trimmed with suspender straps in color, old blue, rose or lavender being particularly appropriate for the purpose.

Not within the memory of the present generation have separate blouses shown such great variety and individuality as this year. The general use of a touch of color with white has much to do with the piquant and dainty effect of this model. The all-white

HOW TO CARRY LIVE POULTRY PROPERLY

Right and Wrong Way of Carrying a Duck.

"A bird in the hand" is an ancient phrase—but it makes a lot of difference how the bird is handled. Especially is this true with the poultryman, who breeds any of the heavier strains of hens, ducks and geese. It is just as easy to carry a fowl properly, and much safer and wiser besides. Here are a few suggestions by J. G. Halpin, secretary of the Wisconsin Poultry association:

Carry a duck by the neck as indicated in the picture. Don't grab it by the wing or the feet. Ducks, like puppies, can stand being handled by the scruff of the neck better than to have their weight suspended from one wing or their feet, which are rather frail.

Right and Wrong Way of Carrying a Hen.

waist is still the most practical thing in the summer outfit, because it launders more satisfactorily than any others, but the touch of color added is very pretty. This appears in the straps, which, however, are detachable and may be omitted and replaced with pockets. Wedgewood blue, lavender and pink are the smartest tints to use with white. The waist buttons up to top of the high collar and has long sleeves. The average size requires 2½ yards 36-inch white material and ¼ yard 36-inch material in color for the suspenders. If made entirely in white 2½ yards will be needed.

After folding the material, confining today's dressmaking lesson to the cutting, the back is placed on the lengthwise fold. This is laid to the right of the front—arranged on a lengthwise thread—which is placed into position first on the collar. To the right of the collar are the cuff and sleeve, these on a lengthwise thread of the linen. There is sufficient space between the fold and selvedge edge to place the smaller sections of the patterns—namely, the straps and pocket.

Pearl or linen covered buttons are good to use in trimming this waist because they do not lose their beauty in the laundering process. While the original models seen in exclusive shops are expensive, a skillful woman could copy almost any of them for much less than it costs to buy them. Particularly is this true in the case of the accompanying design.

SEES WORLD COURT WITH "PUNCH" COMING.

John Hays Hammond Predicts Establishment of Compulsory Arbitration.

At the conclusion of the world court congress at Cleveland, John Hays Hammond, the chairman, predicted with confidence that the plan for a world court with a "punch" behind it to make arbitration obligatory instead of optional was certain of adoption at the end of the European war.

"There are many who are inclined to believe the movement visionary," said Mr. Hammond. "These do not comprehend the information at the disposal of the men fostering the idea. Assurances have come from all sides, including representative men of the nations now at war, that support of the plan for a world court is sure to come once the carnage in Europe has ended. These assurances are authoritative."

"While the congress has been in session we have received pledges of intended support to our plan from individuals and organizations all over the country. It is certain that public opinion in the United States will crystallize speedily into a determination that will make this country a leading signatory to a league of nations."

FOG BOMBS HIDE ZEPPELINS.

New German Invention Prepared For Coming Attack on London.

"Nebelbomben"—fog bombs—are to be used by Zeppelins when the big attack on London takes place, according to a dispatch from Berlin. Workers in the German airship factories, who usually are so secretive, are as enthusiastic as schoolboys over successful experiments made with the new contrivance.

A witness of the experiments at Friedrichshafen says that in perfectly clear weather when the bomb is dropped from an airship it explodes at a calculated distance from the ground and with incredible rapidity sends out a fog which absolutely shuts out the Zeppelin from view. The fog spreads for many kilometers nearly instantaneously.

LIKED GIRL'S KISS, BUT—

British Soldier Could Not Stand Embrace From Her Father.

H. C. Keith of Wakonda, S. D., is in receipt of a letter from a friend, R. S. Johnston, a Briton, who is a gunner in the British army in France and Belgium.

"The French and Belgians," the Briton writes, "are good to us. When we marched into one place an extremely pretty girl rushed up and threw her arms around my neck and kissed me. I felt like fighting six Germans and ten or fifteen Turks."

"But when her father came up and pulled off the same stunt, kissing me on both cheeks, I got real mad and told him I'd punch him in the jaw."

The German emperor and his staff had a narrow escape while watching the operations in a village near the river San, in Galicia, according to a dispatch from Budapest.

NEW TYPES OF WARSHIPS.

Britain Calls For Men to Build Several Battleships on Clyde.

That the shipyards on the Clyde in Scotland are turning out fighting ships of entirely new types for the problems of the North sea and the Dardanelles was revealed in an address to business men by Captain J. J. Bartlett of the British admiralty. In urging the necessity of recruiting several thousand skilled workmen for the shipbuilding works he said:

"Our main concern on the Clyde is the fleet. These yards are building ships of new types, and great issues depend on their arriving at their stations."

"To get these ships ready there are wanted many more men, especially iron workers. In order to beat the enemy we shall have to pool the whole of our resources of skilled labor and put them on government work."

ESPERANTO HELPS SOLDIER.

Austrian Captive in Russia Tells of Use of Neutral Tongue.

The Prager Tagblatt prints a letter from an Austrian soldier made prisoner by the Russians, who tells of the great use a knowledge of Esperanto has been to him in making known his wishes when his own language failed.

He says the face of a Russian officer lighted up at sight of the green Esperanto star, and he at once spoke in that language. At Moscow three officers called on him and were delighted to use the neutral language.

On his arrival in Siberia he found a group of Esperantists, some Russians and some Hungarians, and they were able to be of much use as interpreters among those who otherwise could not have understood one another. "This enabled us to enjoy ourselves fairly well," he adds.

How Does "Love In a Hurry" Strike You?

It is the new Serial to appear next week in the TIMES.

The title sounds as though there might be a sequel.

We hope so--if it's as good a story as this one

But when

GELETT BURGESS

writes it is fairly certain to be good.

Most of you know about him--are familiar with his work.

For those who do not know his writing this is an opportunity not to be neglected.

His books are like some automobiles, they sell on their reputation.

This one has more than reputation--it is what is facetiously known as a "Humdinger". Action in every minute, and it doesn't take you back three or four hundred years to events that may be historically important but feebly interesting to-day.

More people should read this Serial than any the TIMES has ever published.

We will announce later the day it is to start and in the meanwhile give you an inkling of its plot.

GEORGE WAMPLER

The Kiss That Went Astray

By JOHN TURNLEE

The funniest case of saying goodbye between a pair of lovers parting for good because they couldn't marry happened to a friend of mine, Willard Seymour. Willard met Nancy Hargrave in the sweet summer time in the country when neither had anything to do but talk about love, think about love, dream about love, and when any two young persons of opposite sex are in that situation there is bound to be a love affair between them.

Willard and Nancy spent two weeks together and would have made a match if it had not been that neither had the wherewithal to make a nest, and both realized that such was necessary. The time was long enough to cause them to wish to marry, but not long enough to cause them to do what they considered a foolish thing. Willard might have been willing to take the risk, but Nancy, who was a sensible, farseeing girl, would not hear of it.

Willard said when the parting time came that Nancy might give him just one kiss. She said she would see about it. Willard had often as a child heard his mother say when he wanted something that she would see about it, and he always got it. So when Nancy said it he felt sure that the kiss would be his.

Funny, isn't it, that fate should have produced a lot of trouble and finally forced these two, to marry on account of a kiss that was not even definitely promised?

When the lovers left the summer resort, where they had passed two delicious weeks, they went from the same railway station at 10 o'clock at night. Willard was to go on one train, Nancy on another. When Willard went to the station he had not received his kiss. He arrived on a dark side of the building and saw a woman walking back and forth whom he mistook for Nancy. It occurred to him that she was waiting there in the dark to give him the farewell kiss. Going up to her, he put his arms around her.

The woman pushed him away, but any coy damsel would do that, and Willard persisted. The woman cried loudly for help. The agent came around. She accused Willard of insulting her, and there was a scene. She was very angry and insisted on the agent's telephoning for the police. He did so. They came, and on the woman's promising to appear against the prisoner he was taken to jail.

Nancy came up just in time to see her lover marched off. He was permitted to explain the matter to her, and she believed his story. She concluded to remain over and await the trial.

The next morning Willard was brought up before a judge who had acquired the name of the little red god of war from the fact that his bristling hair and whiskers were of a fiery red hue and his disposition was as fiery as his hair. It was seldom that a case of any importance came before him, and here was one of a gentleman--in appearance at least--who was accused of a heinous crime. Besides, the prisoner was a summer city man, belonging to a clan that looked down on the denizens of the town.

The woman gave her testimony, and Willard admitted the fact, but denied criminality, declaring that he had mistaken the woman for another. When he was asked what other he declined to answer on the ground that he was not required to give the other person away. Nancy was in court in a back seat. She longed to save her lover by testifying that she was the person the prisoner had intended to kiss. But to do that she must acknowledge their engagement to the world.

The trial was brief, and the prisoner was found guilty under instructions from the little red god of war that did not admit of an acquittal. Then the judge gave him a long discourse on those excesses of society whose wealth led them to believe they could commit any crime with impunity. The prisoner was given to understand that he could not offend the morals of a town that had suffered only too often from the misdeeds of summer visitors. Since the townspeople made their living from summer boarders, this was, to say the least, unjust to the class referred to. Finally he sentenced the culprit to six months in jail.

"Your honor," cried a feminine voice from the rear of the room, "I desire to be put on the stand."

The judge declared that it was too late, but the prisoner's counsel declared that he would move for a new trial that would cost the county considerable money, and in view of this threatened expenditure the judge consented to hear what Nancy had to say. She took the stand and told the story as I have told it, or as much of it as was necessary. The judge, in order to save costs, directed the jury to retire again and bring in a new verdict. This they did, and the prisoner was acquitted.

A number of friends and acquaintances of both parties attended the trial and at the end gathered about Willard and Nancy with congratulations both as to Willard's escape from a long imprisonment and their engagement. There was nothing for them to do but to acknowledge the latter, or at least to make no denial of it, and, since they had been thus thrown together before the world by a kiss they had not enjoyed, after deliberation (including the kiss as intended) they concluded to accept the decree of fate and were accordingly, after a few months' engagement, married.
